

Population Projections

For a complete analysis of population projections please refer back to the Profile Section of this plan. The following projections show a realistic population growth from the modest growth of the past decade to the more robust growth spurt experienced in the 1990's.

Due to the uncertainty of economics and the unknown future, these indicate different scenarios that may be encountered in Lexington through the year 2030.

The population projections for Lexington are as follows:

2020

2030

Table: 37: Population Projections, Lexington, 2020, 2030